

his annual message, resigning the extraordinary powers with which he had been clothed in January, 1837. All Chili will bear testimony, foreigners as well as native born, that in no one instance has he abused them, but so conducted himself, and his administration, as to entitle him to the thanks and rewards of a grateful country.

Chili, with such rulers, and so moderate and energetic a government, must rise rapidly in the scale of nations.

OX-CART.