

to carry the moral influence of our country to every quarter of the globe where our flag has waved, and I trust that the Expedition will compare advantageously with any other that has preceded it, in its moral and correct deportment.

CHARLES WILKES.

WASHINGTON CITY,
November, 1844.