

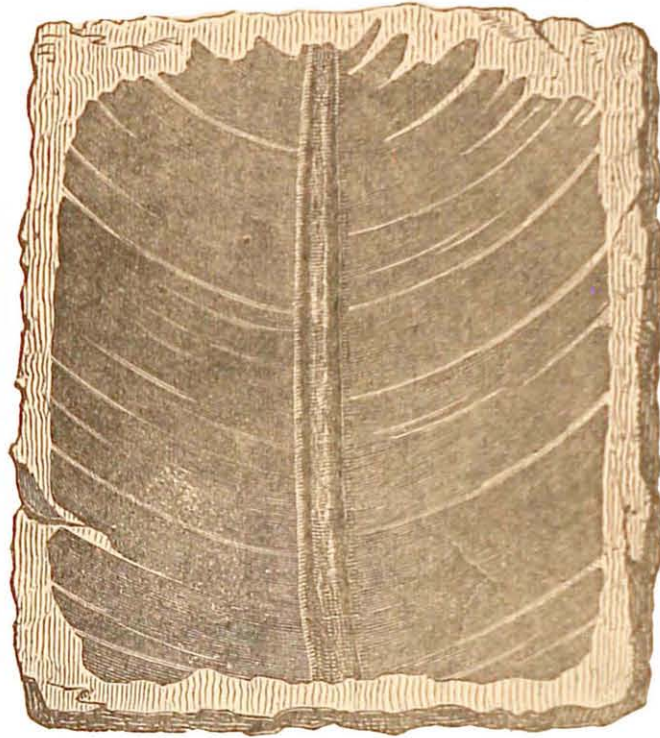

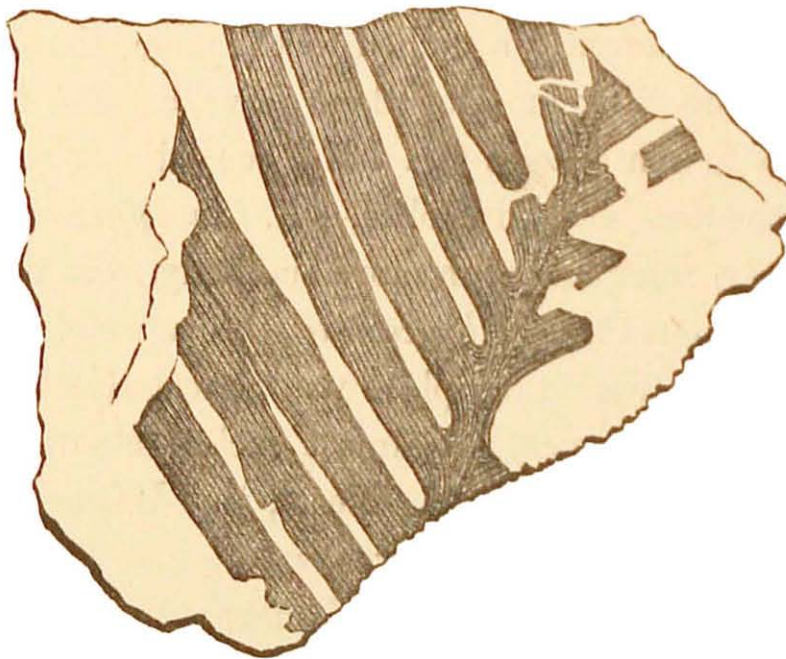

Fig. 134.

ZAMIA

too, along the stem or midrib, not at a right angle, but at an acute one ; the line of attachment is not set awry, but on the general plane of the leaf ; and the midrib itself is considerably less massive and round. A third species from the same lo-

Fig. 135.