

Fig. 89.—Pentacrinites Briareus. Half natural size.

The Ammonites, a curious genus of Cephalopoda, which made their first appearance in small numbers towards the close of the preceding Triassic period, become quite special in the Secondary epoch, with